ROBLOX SECRET ARCHIVES

Terms of Service & Privacy Policy

Last Updated: October 16, 2026

1. Introduction

Welcome to Roblox Secret Archives (“the Archive,” “we,” “our,” or “us”).

Roblox Secret Archives is an independent research and archival project dedicated to collecting, organizing, preserving, and analyzing publicly available documents and information concerning Roblox, its platform policies, moderation practices, publishing systems, creator economy, technical systems, and related subjects.

By accessing or using this website, you agree to comply with these Terms of Service. If you do not agree with these terms, you should discontinue use of the website.

These terms apply to your use of the website, its original content, research materials, interactive features, contact forms, and any other services provided directly by the Archive.

2. Independent Status and Trademark Disclaimer

Roblox Secret Archives is an independent project. It is not affiliated with, operated by, authorized by, endorsed by, or officially associated with Roblox Corporation or its affiliates.

The names “Roblox,” associated logos, trademarks, product names, and other identifying marks belong to their respective owners. Such names and marks may be used for identification, commentary, criticism, research, and descriptive purposes.

Nothing on this website should be interpreted as an official statement, policy, announcement, or representation made by Roblox Corporation.

The Archive does not claim ownership of Roblox's trademarks, proprietary systems, or intellectual property belonging to other parties.

3. Purpose and Research Disclaimer

The Archive exists for educational, documentary, historical, analytical, and research purposes.

Materials published on this website may include public documents, policy references, archived materials, research summaries, commentary, technical explanations, and independent analysis.

Although reasonable efforts may be made to preserve source information and provide accurate descriptions, the Archive does not guarantee that every document is complete, current, authentic, or free from errors.

Policies, technical systems, support procedures, and platform practices may change over time.

The Archive's Support Routing Lab, simulations, estimates, and similar interactive tools are educational projects. Their results are illustrative and must not be treated as official Roblox decisions, predictions of internal procedures, or guarantees of any outcome.

Users should consult official sources when they require current, authoritative information about Roblox policies or procedures.

4. Acceptable Use

You may access the website for lawful personal, educational, journalistic, research, and other legitimate purposes.

You agree not to:

- Use the website to violate applicable laws or the rights of others.
- Attempt to compromise the website's security, availability, or integrity.
- Interfere with the website's operation or abuse its forms and interactive features.
- Submit malicious code, harmful files, fraudulent information, or deliberately misleading material.
- Impersonate another person or misrepresent your affiliation with Roblox Secret Archives.
- Use the website to harass, threaten, dox, or unlawfully expose another person's private information.
- Misrepresent Archive content as an official Roblox publication or statement.
- Reproduce or redistribute protected original Archive material in a manner that infringes applicable intellectual property rights.

Nothing in these terms prohibits lawful research, criticism, commentary, reporting, or other activities protected by applicable law.

5. Intellectual Property and Ownership

Roblox Secret Archives contains original and third-party materials. Different rights may apply to different parts of the website.

5.1 Original Archive Material

To the extent permitted by applicable law, the Archive claims copyright in its original creative works, including original written commentary, research articles, custom website code, original graphic designs, and sufficiently original selection or arrangement of materials.

These rights do not automatically extend to underlying facts, ideas, methods, public information, or material owned by third parties.

5.2 Third-Party Materials

Documents, screenshots, logos, policy excerpts, quotations, and other materials originating from Roblox or other third parties remain subject to the rights of their respective owners.

Their inclusion in the Archive does not transfer ownership to the Archive or imply that the Archive has obtained exclusive rights to them.

Where reasonably practicable, the Archive may provide source references, attribution, or links to the original material. Attribution does not replace permission when permission is legally required.

5.3 Permitted Use

Visitors may access and reference the Archive for lawful research, personal use, commentary, criticism, and other uses permitted by law.

You may quote reasonable portions of original Archive writing where permitted by applicable law, including applicable copyright exceptions, with appropriate attribution where reasonably practicable.

You may not claim authorship of original Archive material or reproduce substantial portions of protected original content for redistribution or commercial exploitation without authorization, unless your use is otherwise permitted by law.

Nothing in this section restricts rights that cannot legally be restricted, including applicable fair use or other copyright exceptions.

5.4 Attribution

When referencing original research, commentary, or compilations created by the Archive, we request that users credit Roblox Secret Archives as the source.

This attribution request does not create ownership over facts or independently obtained information, nor does it override applicable legal rights.

6. Documents and Archived Records

The Archive may preserve or reference documents obtained from public sources, user submissions, external websites, or other lawful sources.

We may include summaries, annotations, source links, dates, contextual explanations, and other research information to help visitors understand the material.

Where practicable, the Archive aims to distinguish original source material from its own commentary and analysis.

Archived materials may be incomplete, outdated, withdrawn from their original sources, or subject to disputes regarding authenticity, accuracy, privacy, or intellectual property rights.

The Archive reserves the right to correct, annotate, restrict access to, replace, or remove material when reasonably appropriate, including in response to credible reports of errors, privacy concerns, legal obligations, or rights violations.

Preservation does not guarantee permanent availability.

7. User Submissions

If you submit information, documents, corrections, research suggestions, or other materials to the Archive, the following terms apply.

7.1 Your Responsibilities

You are responsible for the material you submit. You should submit only material that you are legally entitled to provide and that does not unlawfully disclose confidential information, personal information, or material belonging to another party.

You must not knowingly submit fabricated evidence, malicious files, unlawful content, or material intended to harass or expose another person.

7.2 Ownership and Permission

You retain whatever rights you already hold in material you submit.

By submitting material, you grant the Archive a non-exclusive, worldwide, royalty-free license to receive, review, store, reproduce, and use that material for evaluating the submission and, where appropriate, operating the Archive.

Publicly publishing, distributing, or incorporating your submission into the Archive requires a separate appropriate basis, such as your explicit permission, an applicable license, or another lawful basis.

This license does not transfer ownership to the Archive and does not grant rights that you do not possess.

You may contact the Archive to request withdrawal or deletion of your submission. We will consider such requests in light of applicable law, third-party rights, legitimate archival interests, and technical limitations.

7.3 Review and Publication

Submitting material does not guarantee that it will be accepted, published, retained, or credited in a particular manner.

The Archive may decline submissions, request additional source information, add contextual notes, or remove previously published material when appropriate.

8. Copyright Complaints and Takedown Requests

The Archive respects intellectual property rights and expects users to do the same.

If you believe that material hosted or published by the Archive infringes your copyright, you may contact us with sufficient information to identify the material and explain your concern.

Please include, where applicable:

- Identification of the copyrighted work you believe has been infringed.
- The URL or other information identifying the disputed material.
- Your contact information.
- An explanation of your ownership or authority to act on behalf of the rights holder.
- A statement explaining why you believe the use is unauthorized.
- Any other information reasonably necessary to assess your request.

Please send notices to: carhartgraham537@gmail.com

We will review credible complaints and may remove, restrict, or retain disputed material as appropriate under applicable law.

Where the United States Digital Millennium Copyright Act (DMCA) applies, notices and counter-notifications must satisfy the applicable statutory requirements. A notice does not automatically establish infringement, and the Archive may consider relevant defenses and exceptions.

Knowingly submitting materially false claims may have legal consequences.

The Archive does not guarantee a particular outcome or response time for every complaint.

9. External Websites and Services

The website may link to third-party websites, documents, hosting providers, contact services, and other external resources.

These services operate independently and may have their own terms, privacy policies, security practices, and availability limitations.

The Archive does not control every external service and is not responsible for changes made to third-party websites or for their practices, except where applicable law provides otherwise.

A link to an external resource does not necessarily constitute endorsement of that resource.

Visitors should review the applicable terms and privacy policies of third-party services when appropriate.

10. Availability and Changes

The Archive is provided on an as-available basis. We may modify, suspend, replace, or discontinue features or portions of the website at any time.

We do not guarantee uninterrupted operation, permanent document availability, compatibility with every device, or freedom from all technical errors.

We may update these Terms of Service and the Privacy Policy as the website develops or its legal and operational requirements change.

The revised version will display an updated revision date. Where required by applicable law, we will provide additional notice or obtain consent for material changes.

Continued use of the website after an update does not override any legal requirement for affirmative agreement.

11. Disclaimer of Warranties

To the fullest extent permitted by applicable law, the website and its materials are provided on an “as is” and “as available” basis.

The Archive makes no general warranty that its materials will be complete, accurate, current, uninterrupted, or suitable for a particular purpose.

This disclaimer does not exclude any warranty or right that cannot lawfully be excluded.

12. Limitation of Liability

To the fullest extent permitted by applicable law, Roblox Secret Archives and its operator shall not be liable for indirect, incidental, special, consequential, or punitive damages arising from the use of, or inability to use, the website.

This provision is subject to applicable legal requirements and does not exclude or limit liability where such exclusion or limitation is prohibited by law.

Nothing in these terms removes rights or remedies that applicable law makes non-waivable.

Visitors remain responsible for evaluating information before relying on it for legal, financial, technical, business, or other important decisions.

13. Privacy Policy

This section explains how the Archive handles information in connection with the website.

13.1 Information You Provide

Depending on the features you use, you may voluntarily provide information such as:

- Your email address.
- The contents of a message or inquiry.
- Documents, links, or other material you submit.
- Information you include in a correction, copyright complaint, or deletion request.

Please avoid submitting passwords, financial account information, government identification numbers, or unnecessary sensitive personal information.

13.2 Contact Forms and Email

The website's contact form uses FormSubmit.co to process and forward submissions.

Information entered into the form may be transmitted to and processed by that service and the email provider used to receive the message.

The Archive may retain correspondence for responding to inquiries, documenting complaints, managing submissions, maintaining security, or meeting legal obligations.

The actual handling of information depends in part on the configuration and practices of the third-party services involved.

Do not assume that submitting a message is anonymous or that every copy will be immediately deleted.

13.3 Visitor Data and Technical Information

When you visit a website, technical information may be processed by hosting providers, browsers, network infrastructure, or third-party services.

Depending on the services and configuration in use, this information may include IP addresses, request timestamps, browser information, referring pages, and technical logs.

The website also displays a third-party visitor-count badge. That service may process information needed to provide visitor statistics.

The Archive does not claim that every visitor is untracked or that third-party services collect no information. Their actual practices depend on their configurations and applicable policies.

13.4 Browser Storage and Interactive Features

Certain interactive features, including the community preview, may store information locally in your browser rather than submitting it to a central Archive database.

Local browser data may remain on your device until it is cleared, overwritten, or removed by the relevant browser or feature.

Clearing your browser storage may remove locally saved information.

This description applies to features designed to operate locally and should not be interpreted as a guarantee that hosting infrastructure or other third-party services process no technical data.

13.5 Purposes of Processing

Information may be used, as appropriate, to:

- Respond to inquiries and requests.
- Review submissions and research materials.
- Investigate corrections, complaints, and copyright concerns.
- Maintain website functionality and security.
- Prevent abuse, spam, and malicious activity.
- Maintain records necessary for legitimate operational or legal purposes.
- Comply with applicable legal obligations.

We do not claim that all information is anonymous, nor do we promise that information is never processed by third-party providers.

13.6 Sharing and Third-Party Processing

The Archive does not sell personal information as a business practice.

Information may be processed by third-party service providers when necessary to operate the website, deliver messages, provide visitor statistics, host content, or maintain security.

Information may also be disclosed where required by law or where reasonably necessary to address security incidents, legal claims, or unlawful activity.

We aim to limit the information provided to third parties to what is reasonably necessary for the relevant purpose, subject to the capabilities and practices of the services used.

13.7 Retention and Deletion

Information is retained only for as long as reasonably necessary for its relevant purpose, subject to applicable legal obligations and legitimate recordkeeping needs.

Retention periods may vary according to the type of information, the service that processes it, and whether a complaint, dispute, or legal obligation requires preservation.

You may request deletion of information you have submitted by contacting the Archive.

We will review such requests and take appropriate action where reasonably possible and legally permissible.

Deletion from the Archive does not necessarily remove copies held by email providers, third-party processors, backups, recipients, or other independent services. Those copies may be subject to separate retention and deletion procedures.

13.8 Security

We take reasonable steps appropriate to the project and its available resources to protect information under our control.

However, no website, email system, or internet transmission can be guaranteed to be completely secure.

The Archive cannot promise that unauthorized access, data loss, service outages, or other security incidents will never occur.

This statement does not waive any obligations or liabilities that apply under law.

13.9 Children's Privacy

The Archive does not knowingly solicit personal information from children under 13 through its submission features.

Individuals under 13 must not submit personal information or materials through those features.

If we become aware that personal information has been submitted by a child under 13 in circumstances requiring action, we will review the matter and take appropriate steps, including deletion where reasonably possible and legally required.

Because third-party services may hold separate copies, we cannot guarantee immediate removal from every system or backup.

Additional legal requirements may apply depending on the nature of the information, the service configuration, and the circumstances of collection.

13.10 Your Privacy Requests

Depending on applicable law and the circumstances, you may have rights to request access to, correction of, or deletion of personal information.

To make a privacy request, contact: carhartgraham537@gmail.com

Please provide enough information for us to identify the relevant submission without unnecessarily disclosing additional sensitive information.

We may need to verify a request before acting on it. We will respond in accordance with applicable law and the capabilities of the systems involved.

13.11 External Links and Privacy

When you follow a link to another website, that website's privacy practices apply to your activity there.

The Archive does not control the information independently collected by external websites and recommends reviewing their privacy notices when appropriate.

13.12 Policy Updates

This Privacy Policy may be revised when website features, third-party services, or applicable requirements change.

The latest revision date will be displayed at the beginning of this document.

14. Contact Information

For questions about these terms, privacy requests, corrections, copyright concerns, or other matters relating to Roblox Secret Archives, contact:

Project: Roblox Secret Archives
Contact email: carhartgraham537@gmail.com
Website: https://hamgram77.github.io/roblox-secret-archives/

Please use an appropriate subject line to help identify the nature of your request.

15. Severability and Applicable Law

If any provision of these terms is determined to be unenforceable, the remaining provisions will continue to apply to the extent permitted by law.

These terms are subject to applicable law. Any choice of governing law or forum must be consistent with applicable legal requirements and any rights that cannot lawfully be waived.

Nothing in these terms is intended to deprive a visitor of a non-waivable statutory right.

End of Terms of Service & Privacy Policy

Roblox Secret Archives is an independent research project. All third-party trademarks and materials remain the property of their respective owners, as applicable.